The Question of Taxes

Editor, Oxford County Advertiser: R. L. Cummings in his article "Taxes, Who Should Pay Them?" in the Feb. 3rd issue of your paper, gave the selection of this town a hard slam. Mr. Cummings is an artist. No one who has passed on that road can fail to recognize the picture. If this man had spent one-fourth of the money on his house that he has wasted on old automobiles, his windows would have been in them, and the picture would be different.

Mr. Cummings says he understands in two instances the town fathers have, uncollected, paid a bill. This is false. The first time, this man came to my house and asked for help, which we gave; the second time, the doctor would not go to his house unless we guaranteed his pay. Afterwards, when he failed to collect it, we paid him.

How about the taxes on 395 acres of land, the valuation is $1,800, $4.56 an acre; on the buildings, house, shed and barn, $100. His taxes have not been increased. I find that in 1927 his taxes were $3.90 less than in 1926, in spite of 40% increase in the rate of taxation. If this man had a disposition to try and pay his taxes, we would make it as easy for him as possible, but he has not.

Last spring he asked me if the town would buy some hemlock plank to go on his taxes. I said sure, we always needed them to get them out right length for bridges and we would give him the market price. Did we get the plank? We did not. Now, Mr. Editor, we are not setting ourselves up for little tin Gods and if Mr. Cummings had written the truth about us, we would have grinned and taken our medicine, but we object to a well, let's call a spade a spade, and say lie.—E. L. Dunham, Chairman, Selectmen of Greenwood.

In Trim This Winter?
Watch The Kidneys After Winter's Colds.

COLDS and grip are hard on the kidneys. When the kidneys slow up, impurities remain in the blood and are apt to make one tired and achy with headaches, dizziness and often nagging backache. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor.

13 TIMES

WE TEST SOCONY GASOLINE AND MOTOR OIL

WE could tell you a great many technical details about Socony Gasoline and Motor Oil. They would not interest you.

The important facts are these:

A product is just as good as, and no better than, the Company that makes it.

Our Company has been refining oil for fifty-four years. We produce our own crude. We test our product 13 times between the time when it comes out of the ground and the time when it is put into your car.

Almost every invention for improving gasoline and oil is offered to us first. And whenever it is possible to make Socony Gasoline and Motor Oil better, they will be made better.

Meanwhile we know that you will prolong the life of your car if you standardize on Socony.

Do You Know the Socony Touring Service?

WHEN you are going somewhere, there is always the question of what road to take. That is exactly what the Socony Touring Service can tell you. They know road conditions and detours. And they know the best roads.

Write to them at 26 Broadway, New York City. Their services are at your disposal.

OH, YES OF LITTLE FAITH!

Two thousand years ago our ancestors were accused of having but little faith. For two thousand years the "impossible" things have been becoming "possible," and yet we lack the faith to visualize the nature of all things. The flat earth has become round; the spoken word now reaches thousands of miles; undersea boats are not a reality; automobiles are on every hand; the radio picks up from the air, strains that come from hundreds of miles away.

Today, as I sat in my office, the strains of a song were wafted through an open window. Excitedly my wife called me and pointed to an airplane half a mile up in the clouds. Through its amplification the pilot was joking with the human ants below. I did not turn a hair. Some one had written that this invention had been perfected, and like millions of others I had accepted it on faith even before it came from the air at me.

And now they speak of picking up voices that have been stilled in death for centuries—just as soon as they can secure instruments delicate enough to catch these fading sounds. Some day they may pick a still, small voice that cries, "Oh, yes of little faith." "Impossible!" you cry! So was the submarine; the telephone; the airplane; the telegraph and the steam engine.

REPAIRING AN UNBROKEN RADIO

In the city of Philadelphia recently, many radio fans discovered one night that a peculiar clicking sound was annoying them. Although the music came in exceedingly well, each broadcasting station was apparently using a grand-sounding click that.

Probably ten square miles of territory was involved, and no doubt hundreds of radio fans proceeded forthwith to take their sets apart to discover the source of this clicking.

In time it was found that the noise came from a loose connection in newly installed electric lights in a public square.

The radio sets were in perfect condition—and a little querying among neighbors with radio sets would have avoided much dismantling.

Don't blame or tinker with your set too hastily if electric work of any kind has been done recently in the vicinity.

LIFE'S LESSON

A butterfly spread his wings in glee, and flew towards the deep blue sea, and I thought—

How glorious life can be! A little bird called to his mate, and I thought—

So I lingered on by the garden gate, and I thought—

How lovely life can be! A humbler bee flitting from flower to flower, gathered the honey for more than an hour, and I thought—

How busy life can be! A tiny fan in my parry bed, was nodding its little velvet head, and I thought—

How beautiful life can be! A baby cooing in its mother's arms, having no thought of life's cares or harms, and I thought—

How innocent life can be! A maid with her lover's eyes espied, as closely they strolled by each other's side, and I thought—

How wonderful life can be! A white haired man sat close beside the one who was once his girlish bride, and I thought—

How peaceful life can be! WILFRED GRAY CURTIS, Box 4, North Bridgton, Me.

WOMEN DO MOST OF THE BUYING

Find the woman and you find the buyer. Figures show figures of women compiled showing that the woman does most of the buying. Of course! Who else knows quite as well what the home and the family need.

In the small towns and on the farms, the woman manipulates the purse strings. Upon her rests the responsibility of buying food, hers and the children's clothes, for her husband the many diverse essentials which men the world over leave to their women to buy, and for her home the modern necessities and devices which contribute to her pride as a housekeeper and to the health for her labor and the time they save.

And because she is civic-spirited, interested in her neighbors and interesting to them, she reads her home-town newspaper. It is to her, week in and week out, an absorbing sort of life around her—its advertising columns a directory of where and what to buy.

BATES—WEST PARIS

Word has been received of the death of Roy Young, of Portland. "Buster", as he was called, was a boy, was born in 1870, and was attending the schools and sports until early manhood, when he went on the railroad for employment. He was an ex-service man of the World War, and went across, was gassed and returned with injured health. For the past year he has been in failing health. He leaves a wife. He was the son of George Young, of South Woodstock. His mother, who was Isabel Heath, died several years ago. He also leaves one sister, Lilla, wife of Howard McAllister, of North Paris. He was about 32 years old. Funeral in Portland, Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. H. on a painting contract with a crew from a painters' firm in Portland.

The nine year old daughter of Ole Pike, who lives on a farm on High St., about two miles from here, was playing in the barn Monday, and fell several feet from the scaffold to the barn floor and struck on the broken end of a sleigh chair, which was leaning against the leg above her knee. Dr. Kay was called and had her moved to the Village, to the home of Lauri Munson, where she is being cared for, and the doctor took her home and more easily attended to. It has been reported that some slivers of wood were extracted from the wound. This report may be true, but the circumstances seem reasonable. It certainly was a narrow escape.

On account of the poor health of Eva Tucker, also of her sister, Ruth too, they have had to give up boarding the school teachers. One of them, Miss O. Snow, has gone to Ella May Curtis' to board with Miss Gertrude Perham, who was already there and the other three, Mrs. P. O. Green, Elsie Stevens, Frances Burnham, Harry Smith and Mr. Walker of Bridgton.

Rehearsals of the "Kitchen Cabinet Band" are in progress. An entertainment will be given in the Grange Hall on Wednesday evening, Feb. 22, and at Bolster's Mills Thursday evening, Feb. 23.

WHERE I WORKED WHEN AN APPRENTICE IN LACONIA, N. H.

The office of the Laconia (N. H.) Democrat, Main Street. Picture probably taken in 1879 by Geo. H. Tebbetts. The office was then owned by Wm. M. Kendall, formerly owned by O. A. J. Vaughan. It was sold by Mr. Kendall July 1, 1878, to Lewis A. Hubbard, and moved to the Belknap Mills Finish Room, Mill St., in 1881, where it remained to 1927 when it was moved to the opposite side of the same street in building formerly occupied by the Laconia Furniture Co.

First Meetings with F. W. Truland and W. J. Dearborn

Editor F. W. Sanborn of Norway, Me., Former Laconian, Tells Us of Old Times

From the Laconia, N. H. News and Critic

The recent passing of Frank W. Truland and William J. Dearborn, printers, to the unknown brings to mind our first meeting.

Willie Dearborn was at his home on Belvidere Hill, Lakeport, in May 1879. His father, John P. Dearborn, was a printer and worked for Col. M. A. Haynes, of the Laconia Times where I was working. I called at the house and the boy was sick. It proved to be the measles and I caught them and laid off for a couple of weeks.

If I remember correctly I worked 14 months for my board and $40.00. And to obtain $20.00 my father, John S. Sanborn, of Meredith Center sued Mr. Haynes and the case was tried before a jury at the Court House. There was a misunderstanding regarding the term of service. The jury gave a verdict in favor of $20.00 was paid.

The first meeting with Frank W. Truland was on the evening of election Nov. 1924. When Horace Greely and B. G. Brown failed to be elected president and vice president, Frank voted for Willie Dearborn. Frank told me he was in Laconia, N. H., in the morning and arrived at Laconia in the afternoon. He came direct to the Democrat Office escorted by the editor, O. A. J. Vaughan who introduced him as a friend. He was a short rather thick set fellow, wearing home-spun clothes and a Scotch cap and seemed to think himself of some consequence.

He took the place of F. F. Thomas who had left a few days before. I think Thomas went to Pittsfield, N. H. to have charge of a paper in that town owned by a Mr. Brown. Have never heard of him since. Thomas was a man of an interesting nature. He lost it in the turbot of a country Campbell Press in Manchester of Portsmouth. He had a wife and several young children. They lived in the attic over the printing office.

Entrance to the office was had by climbing a "ladder" outside stairs. Under the stairs was the millinery store of Miss Kate Truland and the next door neighbor was "Dee" Bean who kept rooms, boarders and a saloon. I think this building remains pretty much as it was then.

North of the Fields' Millinery Parlor was "Trickett" Smith's cobbler's shop. I recall that many citizens of about his age would gather in the evening and play dominoes. I do not think they played cards. I called one evening to get measured for a pair of shoes and found Mr. Vaughan and Stage Driver Little much interested over dominoes.

I got the shoes and paid $5.00 for them. It was nearly all my wages for a week's work. I was getting $6.00 a week and board at the time and was boarding in the family of Mr. Vaughan. The children were Charles, Grace and "Bennie". Grace married Charles Pittman and died a few years ago. "Bennie" never married and is now living.

Mr. Truland had been introduced as boss and that meant we must do as he said. The cleaning up of the office was a serious matter for me. When these men and used clay pipes. When these men came to the attention of Truland he inquired for the owners. No one answered and they were thrown into the stove.

One of W. Tebbetts, for many years editor of the Laconia National Bank, worked in the office. He did not smoke and it pleased him greatly to see the destruction of the pipes. The edict that no smoking would be allowed in the office was announced.

Oran set type by the thousand getting 28 cents for each thousand set. Coffin coming from Manchester got the same price.

It was not long before Coffin left and Louie J. Truland, Frank's brother, took his place. Mr. Vaughan said Louie was a willing worker and was always busy. The inference might have been that I shirked. Louie worked by the week the same as I did.

I slept in a room adjoining the office and built the fire. Louie and I took turns sweeping, also in bringing up the wood. There was a pump in the wooden sink and the water came from some unknown place. We didn't drink it.

The Democrat was printed on a hand press. The room was low posted and a hole was cut into the story above for "swinging of the frisket." Mr. Vaughan often "pulled the press" and I rolled, that is, inked the type forms. Charles, Grace and Brownie helped fold. Chas. Vaughan was nimble at that, too.

Many subscribers called at the office to get their paper. The delivery of papers in that way was a great bother as it necessitated some one being in the office all the time especially for three days after it was printed.

There were Democrats and also Republicans who would feel disgraced to have a paper different from their political belief in the house. I remember a Jackson who lived near the Fair Grounds and a Mike Scott, who was a worthwhile Democrat. Also Col. Eben Pitman, up in town and others, equally set in their ideas—even John Smith, on the Parade, Jacob, his brother. They wouldn't willingly have a Republican paper near them.

There were others. The Republicans were the same. Nothing good could come from Democratic headism, southern prison-pens, bloody shirt, etc.

It now seems strange, but it was a fact at that time. The war had been closed only seven years. Party lines were closely drawn. The strife had not subsided. To look back to the files of the paper one would wonder at such a prejudice.

In 1879 Willie Dearborn came to the Democrat office, then owned by Lewis and Sanborn, as an apprentice. He boarded with the writer at the Col. James House, corner of Court and Fair street, and later lived on New Salem street until Sanborn moved to Norway, Me., in the summer of 1882.

At that time Winfield Scott Gore of Plymouth, N. H., was an apprentice in the office. He worked 3 years and went to Massachusetts and died near Boston some few years ago.

Louis J. Truland, Printer referred to above, is living at 150 Church St., Laconia, N. H. He is the owner of considerable real estate and other property. He could properly be called a wealthy, retired printer. He was born in Lowell, Vermont, October 4, 1853. Commenced work on the White Mountain Republic, Littleton, N. H., when 14 years of age. Later he worked on the Independent Gazette of the same town. Also on the Lake Village Times, when owned by Col. M. A. Haynes and the Laconia Democrat under the ownership of O. A. Vaughan. He worked for a while at job printing in Nashua, N. H., and at Fitchburg, Mass.

He commenced business for himself in Laconia in October 1876 and continued up to August 1925. His brother Frank W. Truland was his partner and their shop was known as Truland Brothers, Job Printers.

Thus it seems they have been in business in Laconia almost 50 years—to be exact, 49 years.

Niagara "Kolo" Dusting Materials

The New Dusts you can see Stick give more permanent protection from each application

These "Kolo" Dusting Materials have sticking properties not found in any other dusting material. They may be applied with equal effect to either wet or dry foliage, and after once "set," will stick for weeks throughout rain and wind. This dust is a visible sticker. You can see it plainly without lens or microscope. Experiments demonstrate that this sticker dust retains a larger percentage of sulphur on the leaf surface for a longer period than is the case of "Lime Sulphur" Solution, or most any other liquid spraying material.

KOLODUST

Kolodust is the Superior Fungicidal Dust for all applications where no poison is necessary for chewing insects.

KOLOTEX

Kolotex is the Superior Fungicide Dust combined with Poison for chewing insects, for application where it is desired to control chewing insects as well as fungus diseases.

NORWAY VICINITY

NORWAY GRANGE

Business and degree work in the forenoon session last Saturday. A fine dinner was served to about eighty. The program in the afternoon consisted of songs,
"America the Beautiful," with Laura Brooks, piano, and Ruth Flanders, violin.
4H Club emblems, their significance and pledge by Louise Knightly, and six health rules by club girls. An address by Miss Edith L. Soule of the State Health Department at Augusta. This was followed by two reels of moving pictures. These were real pictures of life and taught a beautiful lesson, a violin solo and encore by Miss Flanders was excellent and greatly enjoyed.
Rev. Roger Guptill, a missionary from Central Africa, was then introduced. He gave a wonderful talk on "Famine in Africa, telling about their homes, customs and habits. Would that we might have the opportunity to hear more men with such ideals and the great ability to illustrate them to us.
Visitors were present from several granges.

Relates Experience.
Rev. W. H. Mitchell, 824 No. Park St., Columbus, Ohio, says in his own home paper, the seriously with bladder irritation until we used Liberated Buchu (Keller Formula). She had to get up 6 to 8 times each night. "I'll gladly answer any letter."

Liberated Buchu acts on the bladder as salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign matlieving irritation. The tablets are 2c each

The POLICY of PROGRESS.

A STATEMENT
by GENERAL MOTORS

It is the policy of General Motors to maintain continuous improvement, in every one of its car divisions, with no interruption in production.

This means that you enjoy the benefits of new engineering developments promptly—just as soon as they have been thoroughly tested on the 1245-acre Proving Ground.

It means that you can now order the new Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac, or GMC Truck, and receive immediate delivery.

Behind this policy of continuous improvement is an organization so widespread and resourceful that it can make and sell quality automobiles more economically than any automobile manufacturer in the world.

In the north and south it logs and mills its lumber. In the east it makes its ball bearings and radiators. In the middle west it produces its plate glass. Its plants are busy in 33 important American cities.

From almost 5,000 suppliers, its materials are obtained. Its sales and service take place through 33,000 dealers. More than 275,000 families look directly to General Motors for their livelihood—almost a million and a half men, women, and children in every community in the land.

Meaning so much to so many, General Motors has felt a supreme obligation to look ahead.

Are there methods by which General Motors cars can be better built to better serve?

Are there new ideas which can increase the utility and pleasure and safety of motoring?

Are there new materials which can add to owner satisfaction?

Such are the questions that all General Motors engineers have always asked. The answers have made it possible, year after year, to offer an increasing measure of beauty in design, modern performance, riding comfort and distinct style. Thus in every price class, from Cadillac to Chevrolet, purchasers are constantly benefiting from the General Motors policy of progress.

Charles Morey is helping Ingalls McAllister get Leon Kimball's pulp wood out of the woods and up to Holt's Brook.

Chester Holt has sold his Ayshire bull to Morton Kimball of South Waterford, for beef. Mr. Kimball was there Feb. 4, and butchered it. It was a very nice piece of beef. Merritt Sawin and Ernest Grover helped Mr. Kimball with the work.

Ivan Kimball reports seeing a crow over the orchard near Will Fisk's house. Glad to see the old black thief. Hope he hasn't made any mistakes and come back too quickly. If there is any truth in the saying, "Candlemas was clear and bright, Winter will take another flight." Mr. Grover will see some winter yet. Mr. Ground Hog must have seen his shadow sure and of course is back in his hole in bed and asleep for a long while to come.

There is another old saying that "as deep as the snow is in February, so tall will the grass be in June." This year perhaps it will make some difference where you measure the snow, as there are drifts as well as bare ground and we reckon the hay crop will have to be pretty uneven.

Hugh Stearns recently cut a large oak on his lot. The first log was 12 feet long and measured 4 feet through at the top. How large at the bottom, we did not learn.

We were saddened to learn of the passing of Mrs. Edna Saunders at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Littlefield, of Albany. When Mr. and Mrs. Saunders were married, he brought his bride to his home here and they have always lived in the same house. Mrs. Saunders was one who was always ready to help in the time of need. Ill health has kept her more closely at home for some years but she always had a cheery greeting for everyone with whom she came in contact. She was a famous cook and it was her greatest delight to adorn her table with the tempting things she knew so well how to prepare. Some months ago she became so ill that it was thought best to move her to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Littlefield, where she could better receive a loving daughter's care. Mrs. Saunders will be sadly missed by those among whom she has lived for so many years. She leaves an aged husband, who is in poor health, one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Littlefield, two sons, Carlton and Elmer Saunders, and several grandchildren.
